more about mentoring
through Big Brothers
Big Sisters

As a caring adult, you can provide such a unique influence on a local child's life.

Just as you had teachers, tutors and role-models in your life who introduced you to different ways of thinking and encouraged you through the difficulties of school, there are hundreds of students just in Waco who need those same relationships; they need mentors.

Research shows that children who are mentored are less likely to skip class and begin using illegal drugs. They also have more confidence in school and better relationships with their families. Let's help provide those positive influences in the lives of Waco youth!

Through Waco's Big Brothers Big Sisters program, you can become the "Big" for a child at J. H. Hines, spending time with your "Little" for one hour once a week on campus. The Education Alliance has transformed its tutoring program at J. H. Hines into a mentoring program with the partnership of Big Brothers Big Sisters, and we are looking for mentors like you!

Please contact the BBBS regional executive director, Lisa Robertson, at lrobertson@bbbstx.org to get involved or go online to explore the local organization: <http://bbbswaco.blogspot.com/>
